

I cannot get through the day without listening to our K-Love radio station. In fact, it's the only station on the radio that my whole family listens to. We have a family of 4 with two small children. It is encouraging, uplifting and positive. My kids can listen to it without fear of something offensive being said and they love the music with a positive message. My husband and I have a huge circle of friends who all listen and are affected by K-LOVE. They comment on how it gets them through a day at work or how it may even change their bad mood to better for the day. If this station were to be displaced by another kind of programming I may never turn my radio on again. I will instead have to invest my time and money into CD's. I know many others who feel the same. The service provided by K-LOVE not only gives us positive and accurate news updates but family friendly programming. In a world that seems to be negative, degrading and crumbling before us K-LOVE is the one shining light that I can count on each day. Hundreds of thousands of people are encouraged every day by K-LOVE, we are simply 4 out of these thousands but we are 4 that would be deeply saddened to not hear it every day because advocates of LPFM feel that this national service is of little value. I can't believe this is even a consideration. If K-LOVE were to disappear in my area because of these proposed rule changes our radio listening days would be over. There are no other types of programming on the radio worth my time.

Thank You,
